"KING OF PANAMA," COL. SHALER, DEADAided Isthmus Rebels by Refusing to Let Columbians Ride Free.NEW YORK, September 8.—Col. James R. Shaler, the "King of the Isthmus of Panama," died yesterday in his brother's home at Ocean City, N. J. For ten years he was one of the most picturesque and most prominent figures in Panama, and during the exciting period prior to the formation of the republic earned the title which clung to him.In the early nineties, after a long experience in railroad work, Col. Shaler became connected with the Panama Railroad Company as general manager. Though the railroad is only forty-seven miles in length, it does an enormous business. During the administration of Col. Shaler, the fortunes of the undertaking underwent considerable rehabilitation. New terminals were built, the railroad was laid with heavier rails, curves were cut out, new bridges were built and the rolling stock was improved.Col. Shaler possessed a remarkable and commanding personality. In figure he was tall and lean. He wore a large mass of bushy hair, which, as well as his mustache and imperial, was white as driven snow. As chief of the enterprise which was the backbone of the industry of the community he naturally figured largely in Panama affairs.

Demanded His Fares.

He was at Colon when Gen. Tovar of the Colombian army arrived there November 3, 1901, to end the dissatisfaction of the people of the province.The general and his staff of fifteen officers soon left by train for Panama, expecting their force of four hundred and fifty men to follow at once. Col. Torres, commanding their contingent, asked for a special train and was assured by Col.
Shaler that one would be provided as soon as possible. Meanwhile the "King of the Isthmus" assumed that the officer would be ready to pay the fares of this Columbian army which the train was there. The railroad fare for such a body amounted to $2,000 in gold, and the commander had neither the money nor the means of getting it. He tried to bluff the management into giving free transportation or at least transportation on credit."No," he was told by Col. Shaler, "The railroad rule is inviolable. No money, no transportation."With no alternative, the army had to stay where it was. Meanwhile the revolution had occurred in Panama and Gen.
Tovar and his staff had been put in jail.
Two days later the army left the new republic on board the Royal Mail steamship Orinoco.Col. Shaler's connection with the Panama railroad was severed in 1904 and he became United States consul in Panama.During his stay there the colonel continually made light of climatic dangers, though he lost three sisters inside of twenty days. He was born in Kentucky in 1825 and won fame and rank in the army of the Confederacy.

WORRIED OVER MARRIAGE.

Man in Hospital Fears Minister Who Tied Knot Was Not Orained.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., September 8.

—As a result of worry over the uncertainty concerning the legality of his marriage by the Rev. Chester H. Sweet, Alton Stone, aged forty, is in the hospital in this city suffering from nervous shock.Sweet was arrested recently on a charge of misappropriating funds of the Durham Congregational Church, of which he was pastor until his sudden departure six months ago. The church officials stated that since he terminated his pastorate there had been unable to find that he was an ordained clergyman. This led to question as to the legality of the marriages performed by him during his pastorate.Among those wedded by him were Sweet and Miss Fannie Hubbard, aged forty. Stone has not been well of late and the news of the arrest of Sweet and the disclosure of the uncertainty regarding his standing as a clergyman weighed upon Stone's mind.
